Evan (note above his name is spelt Even) Brindle was born in 1807. He married Ellen Moulding in about 1824 and they had four children. He was working as a calico printer at the Oakenshaw Calico Printworks in Clayton-le-Moors when he, at the age of 28, and two others, Rowland Heald and Thomas Rushton decided to poach some game. Unfortunately they were discovered by the property game keeper and a gun went off killing him. They were indicted, tried and convicted of murder at Lancaster Assizes and sentenced to life and all were transported to the colonies. While Evan was in goal waiting sentencing his daughter Elizabeth was born. Evan Brindle, Rowland Heald and Thomas Rushton were transported to New South Wales on the ship, John, which departed on 27 September 1836 and arrived at Sydney on 7 February 1837 with a cargo of 260 convicts.

In that same year Evan was assigned to the House of Correction in Sydney. In 1845 he was granted a Ticket of Leave at Patrick Plains. On 14 February 1848 he was granted a Ticket of Leave Passport at Patrick Plains Bench. On 10 January 1849 he was granted a Ticket of Leave Passport at Singleton Bench and another on 8 December 1849 at the same Bench. On 5 October 1849 he was granted a Conditional Pardon. In 1852 he married a widow, Lucy Walker, at Maitland and they had six children. Evan Brindle died at Muswellbrook in 1876 at the age of 69.

$1,500

Edward Wilson (1813-1878), journalist and philanthropist, born in London on 3 November 1813, son of a linen merchant. A failed business venture dissipated his inheritance and savings and in August 1841 he sailed for Sydney to try sheep farming. He soon moved to Melbourne and became interested in politics, agriculture and newspapers. In 1848 he bought the 'Argus' for £300. He aired his political views through his paper and provided influential opposition to the La Trobe government. Wilson retired in 1855 and developed an interest in the introduction of European birds, fish and animals. In February 1861 he formed the Acclimatization Society as an offshoot of the Victorian Zoological Society and similar societies in the other colonies and throughout Victoria were founded through his influence and involvement. He continued to be active in public affairs until his death on 10 January 1878.

Mr Thomas Cook Just was the commissioner for Tasmania to the Agricultural Society Exhibition held in Sydney at Prince Alfred Park in 1877. The Tasmanian exhibits were located on the eastern side of the exhibition building immediately to the left of the dais and opposite the Queensland exhibits. Mr Just personally exhibited some interesting samples of tin ore from various parts of Tasmania as well as specimens representing the iron ores of Tasmania. He also exhibited an instructive collection of minerals of various descriptions including Tasmanian limestones and minerals from South Australia and New Caledonia. A portion of his exhibits that were particularly attractive to the ladies was a collection of topazes, or Tasmanian diamonds as they were then popularly called, both in the rough and set and polished. Mr Just also showed a small trophy, very ingeniously constructed, the base consisting of carefully selected specimens of every variety of tin ore found in Tasmania, from the centre of which rose a pyramid or column of smelted tin made by dropping the molten metal from a height to create a sort of stalagmite of tin.

Mr Just (Major, Tasmanian Local Forces) was subsequently Commissioner for Tasmania to the Calcutta International Exhibition 1883-8 and the Melbourne International Exhibition 1880.

$200

Together with newspaper image of Colonial Commissioners including R.D. Bannister.

R.D. Bannister was Secretary to the Victorian Colonial Commissioner to the Sydney International Exhibition, The Hon J.J. Casey CMG, MP.

Robert Dixon Bannister was born in London in 1816, and arrived at Port Phillip in January, 1854, in the Phoenix. In the same year he settled at Geelong, where he opened the first homoeopathic business in the Colony of Victoria. After various changes of occupation incidental to the lives of many colonists, he in 1865 was engaged as a travelling agent and lecturer by the Australian Mutual Provident Society, which position he filled successfully and with credit, assisting greatly in making that institution popular. After ten years labours he severed his connection with that institution to return to his old profession, settling in Ballarat, where, in 1877, he mooted the idea of a Juvenile Industrial Exhibition, inviting the young people of all the colonies to assist. This first Exhibition of its character was carried out to a successful issue in the Alfred Hall, Ballarat, and the adjoining Market Buildings, Mr. Bannister being the Honorary Secretary.

As a temperance reformer he was a pioneer of good and useful works, and so far back as the year 1841, he was one of a band of active men who commenced the Band of Hope movement in England, and in the first year of his arrival in the colonies planted the same standard in Victoria at Geelong.

He was also one of the popular temperance reformers who, in 1850, established in London the famous National Temperance League, whose operations were still carried on under the able secretaryship of Mr. Robert Bae, and his name has long been a household word all over Victoria and many parts of South Australia and New South Wales. As a lecturer on Life Assurance and Temperance he was eminently popular and successful in the latter cause; thousands became converts under the influence of his able advocacy. He was one of the pioneers of the Order of Sons of Temperance in Victoria, and, under the authority of the Victorian District, founded the Independent Order of Rechabites in New South Wales.

Another of the useful works Mr. Bannister put his hand to was the instituting of the first Penny Savings Bank in Victoria, and he helped to frame regulations for carrying out Penny Savings Banks in connection with the State Schools in Victoria, ordered by the Minister of Education. In his position as Secretary to the Executive Commissioner of Victoria to the Sydney International Exhibition he was much respected.

In March 1892 it was reported that a silver medal recipient was Mrs Hunt, Patterson Street, Launceston, for a bead vase, First Award. Mrs Hunt was also one of the attendees at the 1894 meeting of ladies interested in exhibiting in the Tasmanian Exhibition 1894-5. Mrs Hunt appears to be the wife of William Hunt of 89 Patterson Street, Launceston. He was a yachtsman and involved on the committees of the Tamar Yacht Club and the Tamar Rowing Club and was also President of the Tamar Regatta Association. One of the trophies competed for at the Tamar Yacht Club was donated by Mrs Wm Hunt and this was won by William Hunt on three occasions. One of his winning yachts was called Vedette and he advertised this for sale from his Patterson Street address in March 1893. The family must have been reasonably well off as Mrs Hunt advertised for a good general servant at her Patterson Street residence in November 1890.

The Bulimba Cup was a rugby league round-robin competition between Queensland teams from Brisbane, Ipswich and Toowoomba. It commenced in 1925 and was discontinued in 1973. Duncan Hall, a tough-as-nails prop forward who played for Australia on the 1948-49 kangaroo tour of England was captain of the Toowoomba team when it won the Bulimba Cup in 1952 and in the same year he was selected for the kangaroo tour. He went on to an outstanding career with other clubs as a player and coach. He co-managed the 1977 Australian World Cup team and the first Queensland Origin team. He was awarded the Australian Sports Medal in 2000 and in 2007 was admitted to the ARL Hall of Fame. In that same year the Duncan Hall Medal was established for the best player in the Queensland Cup grand final.

A connection cannot be confirmed but Lilian May (nee Malone), age 34, wife of Neil Allan, died at Royal Hospital for Women at Paddington, NSW on 5 June 1942.

M V Duntroon was a passenger ship built for the Melbourne Steamship Company and entered service in 1939. She was requisitioned by the Australian Army and served as a troopship from 1942 to 1949. She had an unfortunate incident in November 1940 in Port Phillip Bay when she collided with and sank the auxiliary minesweeper, HMAS Goorangai, the first WWII shipping loss for the RAN. Dogged by bad luck, she had a second collision in November 1943, sinking the American destroyer, USS Perkins off the north coast of New Guinea. She continued in service with the Army until 1946 and was then chartered by the RAN for transport duties with the British Commonwealth Occupation Force. The Duntroon was sold by its owners in 1961 and renamed Tong Hoo and again sold in 1966 and renamed Lydia. She was laid up in 1967 and later scrapped in 1973. The ship's bell is held at the Royal Military College, Duntroon, Canberra, as part of a memorial to RMC Graduates killed on active service.
