$5,000

Entitled to 1914-15 Star; British War Medal 1914-18; Victory Medal 1914-19, also a Memorial Plaque, these all sent to his mother.

MC: LG 14/11/1916, p11074; CAG 19/4/1917, p921, to Captain Harold Charles Howden, 45Bn.

Recommendation: Captain Harold Charles Howden took over on the night of the 5th August 1916 an isolated position of the front line during a heavy hostile artillery bombardment; being warned by the officer whom he relieved that he could expect a counter-attack at daylight he immediately set to work to strengthen his position and when the counter-attack took place on the morning of the 6th, was successful in repulsing it. Owing to his thorough consolidation that portion of the line, notwithstanding an incessant bombardment, was successfully held.

Bar to MC: LG 26/4/1917, p3934; CAG 21/8/1917, p1784, to Captain Harold Charles Howden, 45Bn.

Recommendation: For gallantry and devotion to duty in organising and carrying out two attacks on an enemy's Strong Point and trenches at Guedecourt on the morning of 21/2/17 and night of 22/23 February. Owing to the abnormal wet state of the trenches, these attacks were carried out under great difficulty and the success of both attacks was largely due to Captain Howden's organizing ability and attention to details. On both occasions immediately the trenches were captured Captain Howden took charge and organized their defence. As the result of both operations nearly 500 yards of enemy's trenches were captured and held and 60 prisoners taken.

DCM: LG 10/1/1920, p470; CAG 15/4/1920, p580, to L/Cpl Norman Rupert Bloxsome, 5Aust Infy Bn.

Recommendation for V.C. awarded D.C.M.: This N.C.O. displayed great bravery during the advance on the 16th August, 1918, near Lihons. When the company was temporarily held up on the right flank he moved forward alone with a Lewis gun under exceptionally heavy machine gun fire, and although hit on the head used his gun with great skill and bravery, thereby enabling the centre of the company to get forward into the wood.

When L/Cpl. Bloxsome reached the wood he captured three machine gun posts practically alone, and his work on the flank helped his company in the advance.

His braveness was witnessed by the bulk of the company who realised what exceptional danger he went through, and his example inspired all ranks.

444 Trooper Thomas Morris McWilliams, NSW Citizen's Bushmen confirmed on nominal roll.

440 Sgt Thomas Morris McWilliams, 3rd Contingent NSW Imperial Bushmen confirmed on nominal roll.

Note: Both surnames have an S erroneously added at the end.

Thomas Morris McWilliam died at Melbourne, Victoria on 15 April 1933 at the age of 79. An obituary published in the Dungong Chronicle on Tuesday 15 August 1933, page 1, reads as follows.

'An old identity of Dungog passed away recently in the person of Thomas Morris McWilliam, who died on 15th April, and was interred privately at Fawkner cemetery, Melbourne. Deceased spent his boyhood and early youth, and intermittent years afterwards, at Dungog, where his father Thomas McWilliam (a Glasgow University man) and his uncle Peter McWilliam were engaged in business. Born at Balmain in 1854, the gold fever seems to have entered his blood, and never left it, so that we find him working in the mines and prospecting for gold in all the States of the Commonwealth, including West Australia from which territory he returned sure of its mineral richness years before the discovery of Coolgardie. True to his colours he spent his latest years in an almost inaccessible part of Gippsland, in the neighbourhood of old Victorian mining districts.

In his early years Mr. McWilliam had a taste for military life; he served in the New South Wales Permanent Artillery, and in a semi-military body of Mounted Police in New Zealand at a time of Maori unrest. He was also a trooper in the New South Wales Mounted Police, and during the Boer War of 1899-1902 he had to his credit a long period of active service in South Africa, attaining the rank of sergeant. When the Commonwealth Government adopted compulsory military training in 1910, McWilliam brought before the authorities certain recommendations based on his own experiences.

In 1914 he visited Great Britain, and whilst there submitted to the War Office original ideas concerned with long range gunnery. He had the exciting experience when war was declared of being at sea en route for Australia in the German liner Roon, which ran for Batavia and was interned there by the Dutch. Eventually reaching Australia, McWilliam being rejected for active service on account of age, was active in offering to the Defence Department suggestions for combating the submarine menace, and other matters, which received the acknowledgment of the authorities.

The deceased gentleman was very proud of his descent on his mother's side from the Lockyers of Devonshire; his grandfather being Major Edmund Lockyer who was sent by Governor Darling from Sydney with a detachment of soldiers and some convicts to form a settlement at King George's Sound, West Australia, where he landed 21st January 1827, on the site of the present town of Albany, thereby becoming the instrument by which Great Britain made her first official claim to the possession of the whole of Australia.'

7835 Andrew David Nicoll, stockman, age 38, born at Casino, NSW; Enl.10Sep1917 at Brisbane, Qld in 26Rfts 9Bn; Emb.31Oct1917; to France 01Apr1918; TOS 15Bn 17Apr1918; WIA 25Jun1918, shrapnel wound right thigh, France; Rejoined unit 18Sep1918; RTA 01Jul1919; Disch.14Sep1919. Killed his brother, Alaric, in 1905.

Two brothers argue and one is killed. In January 1906 Andrew David Nicoll was accused of murdering his brother, Alaric McDonald Nicoll, on Boxing Day, 26 December 1905 and was committed for trial. The accused pleaded not guilty. The case for the Crown was to the effect that the accused, the deceased and another brother were camped in a hut at Yore's selection at Allen's Creek near Beaudesert previous to the taking of a ringbarking contract. During the absence of the younger brother, Reginald, who left to set some snares, the other two quarrelled and Alaric was shot. Reginald heard the gun shot and just afterwards heard Andrew coo-ee. He ran back and when he got within sight he saw Andrew standing 50 yards from the hut and on getting closer he saw Alaric lying on the ground. When asked what happened Andrew replied, 'We were fooling with the gun, and it went off'. During the court case there were more detailed disclosures of the argument between Alaric and Andrew and that this simple explanation was not true. The Crown Prosecutor said the jury would have to decide whether the charge was wilful murder, manslaughter, or accidental homicide.

After a short retirement, the jury returned with a verdict of manslaughter, with a strong recommendation to mercy on the ground of prisoner's previous good character. The jury were of the opinion that the discharge of the gun was accidental, but the prisoner was engaged in an unlawful quarrel. Andrew Nicoll was sentenced to three years' imprisonment, with hard labour; but the sentence was suspended under the provisions of section 656 of the Criminal Code, accused to enter into a bond of one hundred pounds and to be of good behaviour for that period.

Bar to MC: LG 14/11/1916, p11084; CAG 19/4/1917, p922, to 2nd Lieutenant Francis William (sic) Goodwin MC.

Recommendation: At Pozieres, France on night of 18th August 1916 after the third attack on enemy trench between Munster Alley and Tramline, our line had fallen back on its original trench, 2/Lieut. Goodwin brought in a badly wounded man and then returned to assist others. Whilst dressing a wounded man a shell burst killing this man and knocking Goodwin out for half an hour; in spite of this when he came to his senses he brought in two others. All this time the enemy kept up a constant fire from Machine Guns and Artillery.

On the next day, 19th, he observed one of our men, No.3495, Pte. G.H.Groves, lying wounded close to enemy parapet, and at night accompanied by Lieut. Mummery went to the spot which was within 5 yards of the enemy trench.

Lieut. Mummery placed the man on Goodwin's back and they started off but were observed by the enemy who poured in a rain of bullets.

However both officers brought this man safely across the 150 yards space between trenches which was swept by machine gun and artillery fire. In addition this officer did invaluable work in supervising the rationing of the men in the front line and getting the wounded down to the Dressing Station.

He was also recommended for a DCM, 31Jul1916; Russian Cross of St George 27Aug1916; VC 27Aug1916; MM (undated).

Fred Taylor died in 1962 and his funeral service was held at the Northern Suburbs Crematorium with many ex-servicemen and women in attendance. Part of the tribute to him published in the Legacy magazine was as follows.

'Fred joined Legacy in 1940, when he was already hard at work on the Art Unions which provided the sinews of war for the War Veterans' Home in the early years. The R.S.L. profited substantially from his work in raising funds, and he was made a Life Member of the League for his services. He carried on as Director of the Art Unions and Lotteries, until last year when illness caused his withdrawal. He had been an active member of the 2nd Bn. A.I.F. Association for the best part of 40 years, and helped greatly in the accumulation of the records of that famous Battalion. He was also an active and enthusiastic member of the A.I.F. Ball, later to be renamed The Victory Ball, and up till last year was responsible for the decoration and arrangements of the official table.

In Legacy he was always an enthusiastic worker, and in spite of his pre-occupation with the intense duties of the Lottery, he continued until last year to be an active member of Enrolment and Reception Committee. Fred also played a small part as an Advisor when opportunity came. He is best remembered by the old lads of the 2nd Battalion for his surprising efforts on behalf of the fighting man in France, when he introduced amenity services right into the front line to a degree which was rarely equalled in the more enlightened days of the 2nd A.I.F. He was indefatigable in the interests of Battalion veterans, and treasured the company of surviving early members, visiting them in hospital, arranging outings, and so forth.'

DCM: LG 3/3/1917, p2202; CAG 25/7/1917, p1545, to Pte George Mitchell, 59 Aust Infy Bn.

Recommendation (by Brig Gen H.E. 'Pompey' Elliott, commanding 15th Infy Bde): Between Millers Son Post and Zenith Trench on the night of 13th/14th December 1916 Private Mitchell displayed great bravery and devotion to duty. He was acting as runner between Millers Son Post and front line, and left Millers Son Post in company with Pte. Rowley, both of them carrying despatches for various points in the front line. On the way they were caught in a heavy enemy barrage and a shell bursting just in front of them, they jumped into a small trench near by, when a second shell fell, killing Private Rowley and burying Private Mitchell. Private Mitchell succeeded in releasing himself and although the bombardment was still going on searched Private Rowley, took the despatches from his pocket and delivered them as well as his own to the officers concerned. He then continued on and acted as a guide to "B" Company which was being relieved from the line. After seeing the Company safely to their position he returned with his receipts and the private effects of Private Rowley to Millers Son Post, and immediately collapsed. Private Mitchell's act prevented greatest confusion in the relief and was most probably instrumental in saving lines as his despatches contained orders relative to the relief and the enemy barrage was particularly heavy.

Pte G.Mitchell, 59Bn, was one of several officers and men of the 5th Australian Division presented with decoration ribbons by Lieut-General Sir W.R.Birdwood, K.C.S.I., K.C.M.G., C.B., C.I.E., D.S.O., Commanding 1st A.N.Z.A.C. on 13th April 1917.

MM: LG 4/11/1941, p6358, to NX22709 Sergeant Trevor Evelyn Meade, 1 Corps Sigs.

Citation: Courage, calmness & devotion at Ellassona on 14 Apr 41.

Recommendation: On 14 Apr. 41 at Ellassoia, Greece, Sgt. Meade was on duty in the Corps Signal Office. A direct and heavy bombing and machine gun attack was concentrated thereon and personnel who were experiencing their first intensive air attack showed signs of leaving the office to seek more adequate cover. Sgt. Meade immediately the attack commenced took over the telephone exchange and continued operating it throughout the raid despite the fact that there were several 'near misses' by heavy bombs. His calmness and devotion to duty under trying circumstances were an inspiring example to his men and as a result of his unhesitating action, all personnel remained at their posts to maintain vital communications throughout the raid.

Medical Research Unit; Died 03Apr1972 suddenly while on Easter holidays in Gippsland, Vic and was cremated at Springvale Botanical Cemetery.

After completing his secondary education at the Ballarat Agricultural High School, Thomas Screen 'Greg' Gregory completed a Veterinary Science degree at the University of Melbourne graduating with honours in 1923. After working as a vet, mainly with cattle, in Canterbury, New Zealand for a few years he returned to Australia and in 1926 commenced work in Melbourne as a research officer in the Council for Scientific and Industrial Research (CSIR) working mainly on contagious bovine diseases. In 1928 he was offered and accepted a position as senior lecturer in bacteriology at the University of Melbourne. After nine years he rejoined the CSIR doing research and also some lecturing. In July 1940 he joined the 2AIF working as a bacteriologist and also serving in Tobruk as well as Syria and research into Malaria in the Pacific.

After the war he continued his scientific work including writing a thesis titled, 'The Studies of Some Infectious Diseases of Sheep and Cattle in Australia'. Thomas Screen Gregory was a distinguished, critical veterinary scientist and member of the Australian Veterinary Association and in 1966 the Council of this Association awarded him the Gilruth Prize. His contribution to veterinary science is massive and he was in the forefront of the campaign on Foot and Mouth disease at all levels and no doubt his contribution has kept Australia free from this disease.

A portrait painting by Louis Kahan was entered in the 1966 Archibald Prize competition reaching a finalist position and this painting is now in possession of the Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organisation (CSIRO) at Parkville, Victoria (formerly CSIR that changed it's name in 1949 after ceasing all defence work for the military). Another sketch of him by Australia's first female official war artist, Nora Heysen, is held by the Australian War Memorial. Images of both of these artworks are included with the lot.

In The "First" Post Journal of the Association of First Infantry Battalions, Vol 16, No.4, October 1981 there was published a fitting tribute to Harry Gray. It reads, 'The Last Post, Vale Harry "Sailor" Gray, 'They shall grow not old, as we that are left grow old.'

On the night of Monday 19th October 1981, a man died at the Concord Repatriation Hospital, Sydney. This was no ordinary man - he was "Sailor" Gray, a life member, and, one of the most popular and respected men of the Association of First Battalions. At all times throughout his life "Sailor" was honourable, trustworthy, honest, noble, brave and a friend to all. Truly a man's man. 'Age shall not weary them, nor the years condemn.'

"Sailor" was born at Gladesville, Sydney on the 3rd October 1914. He was educated at the Marist Brothers College, Hunters Hill. On completion of his schooling he joined the Naval Reserve, later joining the Army. He was with the North Head Battery when war was declared in 1939. He immediately offered his services to his Country and was posted to the original 2/1 Bn at Ingleburn with the rank of Sergeant. 'At the going down of the sun and in the morning.'

"Sailor" sailed with the first contingent of the 2nd A.I.F. aboard S.S.Orford on 10th January 1940. In Palestine and Egypt during that same year he was tireless in moulding and shaping the character and initiative of the Platoons of "B" Company, who later he would so gallantly lead in action. "Sailor" was in the forefront of the action in the battles of Bardia and Tobruk. When the Battalion was ordered to Greece and the long withdrawal took place, he helped his men to overcome all difficulties through his leadership and example. From Servia Pass, over Mt. Olympus and down to the evacuation beaches, "Sailor" showed his great understanding of men and human nature. During the battle of Crete he proved once again the bravery shown in all actions in which he participated, and was a bitterly disappointed man when the remnants of the 2/1 Bn were taken prisoner. He was a P.O.W. in Germany for 4 years.

On his return to Australia, "Sailor" opted to stay in the Army, for many years. He retired as a Major from 2 B.A.D. Singleton NSW after 30 odd years faithful service for his country. (The tribute then extends to his service to the association in the ensuing years up until his death. It can be read in the journal which is included with the lot.)

BEM: LG 5/6/1952, p3058; CAG 19/6/1952, p2832, to 1921 Sergeant Raymond Deed, 1RHU (1st Reinforcement Holding Unit).

Citation: Integrity & devotion in training reinforcements.

Recommendation: Sergeant Deed returned to Japan from Korea on 25 June 1951 after serving during the bitter winter campaigns. Quite frequently whilst in Korea this NCO commanded a platoon with distinction. On his return he elected to stay in Japan to train reinforcements for the battalion, although he was given the option of returning to his home in Australia. Sergeant Deed was aware of the urgent need for trained reinforcements.

This Unit has always been short of officers and Sergeant Deed has been entrusted with platoons on field firing exercises, bivouacs and such exercises. His integrity, devotion to duty and ability always of the highest, has on these occasions been proved by the fact that not one man of his platoon has ever suffered injury during training.

During the period of the October campaign, when Third Battalion, The Royal Australian Regiment was in desperate need of reinforcements, Sergeant Deed worked continuously without rest for five weeks and to his credit must be attributed much of the credit that it was possible to send enough well trained reinforcements forward to bring the battalion to full strength within a few weeks.

Bronze Star Citation: General Orders #13, HQ 89th Infantry Division, April 9, 1945. 'For gallantry in action as Battalion Commander, 354th Infantry, 89th Infantry Division, in military operations against an enemy of the United States. On 26th March, 1945, Lieutenant-Colonel Benson, in the vicinity of Weyer, Germany, led his battalion in a difficult and successful crossing of the Rhine River, in the face of severe enemy resistance, and a swift and treacherous current. At a critical time, when initial attempts to cross were repulsed with heavy losses, Lieutenant-Colonel Benson displayed such determination, resourcefulness, and coolness under fire, that the eventual crossing was assured.'

Henry Kreitzer Benson, Jr (Hank), was born in Seattle, Washington, USA on Christmas Day, 25 December 1912. His father was Dr Henry K. Benson, the dean of Chemical Engineering at the University of Washington and Benson Hall there is named in his honour. After trying a few different jobs, Hank went to George Washington University for a year and then received a congressional appointment to West Point where he graduated in 1936 and was assigned to the 1st Infantry Regiment at Fort Warren, Wyoming. While there he married Barbara Jacobson, also from Seattle, on 2 April 1938.

In 1939 he attended the regular course at the Infantry School at Fort Benning, Georgia and was assigned to 15th Infantry, 3rd Division at Camp Ord, California. Then in 1940 he was transferred for duty with the Military Police Company at Fort Shafter, Hawaii and was in Honolulu when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbour. He was appointed Assistant Provost Marshall until 1942 when he returned to the mainland as G-3 of the Infantry Replacement Training Centre at Camp Roberts, California. He attended the Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas and was then assigned to the 89th Division as a battalion commander in the 354th Infantry. In 1945 he went with the division to Europe and took part in the campaigns in Rhineland and central Germany as battalion commander. He led his battalion in the Rhine River crossing under heavy fire and was awarded the Bronze Star, one of only 135 to the Division. The 89th Division also liberated Ohrdruf, a sub-camp of Buchenwald Concentration Camp. He served with the 83rd and 42nd Divisions and was then appointed provost marshal in Salzburg, Austria.

Hank returned to America for a three year term as assistant professor of military science and tactics at Michigan State University in East Lansing. He then took on various other roles including as G-1 of the 11th Airborne at Fort Campbell, Kentucky, attendance at the Armed Forces Staff College in Norfolk, Virginia, and after graduation served with the Department of Army General Staff as plans officer and the office of the Army Chief of Staff, until late in the Korean War when he was assigned to Headquarters, Far East Command in Tokyo, Japan where he served as aide to the commander-in-chief and secretary of the Joint Staff. After his return to America he had various appointments until 1961 when he was transferred to South Korea as Chief of Staff, U.S. Army Advisory Group, and then commanding general of the 7th Logistical Command at Taegu (now spelt Daegu), the third largest city in South Korea, before returning to America in 1963. His only Vietnam connected service was as commander of a Special Logistics Planning Group established by the Army to deal with plans related to Southeast Asia in 1964.

Hank retired from active duty in August 1967 to settle in Lakewood, Washington where he was close to the military community at Fort Lewis and where he also worked as a consultant for several years to the Boeing Company. 'Hank' Henry Kreitzer Benson, Jr, died on 7 January 1978 at Tacoma, Washington and was buried in the Benson Family plot in Acacia Memorial Cemetery, Seattle, Washington. His wife died many years later on 28 December 1991 and was buried at the same place.
