Mahomet Allum (1858?-1964) camel driver, herbalist and philanthropist, was born in Kandahar, Afghanistan. He supplied the British Army with Arab horses and camels. His business venture allowed him to travel through Asia. He arrived in Australia somewhere between 1888 and 1890. Working with camels he delivered supplies to inland townships and stations and was also a stationhand, sailor and mine-hand. In 1828 or 1829 he settled in Adelaide at a time when there was a lack of confidence by many people with conventional medical practitioners, this enabled herbalists and faith healers to prosper. Allum resided in Adelaide for most of the remainder of his life dispensing herbal mixtures and advice from his home, asking no payment, however, accepting donations and giving freely to charities. The biography 'Mahomet Allum' by Madeleine Brunto shows him wearing the South Australian Ambulance Brigade Medal in the photograph on the front cover.

Percival Murray Penhallurick, Lieutenant (local Captain), The King's African Rifles, attached 2nd Ethiopian Battalion B.M.M.E. MC. L.G. 08Jul1943 'For conspicuous gallantry in action. On 11th Nov. 1941, this officer was commanding 'B' Company of the 2nd Ethiopian Bn. during the attack on Genda fort. He led his company with outstanding courage, ability and dash. For three hours after the outer defences of the fort had been captured he attacked the main building which was strongly fortified, from a range of less than 100 yards. He led several assaults on this building with hand grenades and his sub-machine gun. He set a magnificent example to his Ethiopian Officers and men, showing a complete and utter disregard for his own safety in face of the grenades, heavy rifle fire and Light Automatics which concentrated their fire on his positions. His personal example of courage was largely responsible for the capture of the outer defences of the fort and his conduct throughout the four hours of the attack was beyond all praise'. Percival Murray Penhallurick was an Australian who had an adventurous life, in the 1930s in New Guinea and China. He was awarded the Military Cross while in the King's African Rifles. He became a close friend of the Emperor of Ethiopia. During the 1960s he was a colourful figure in the Antiquarian book trade in his shop at 123 Little Collins Street in Melbourne and was founder of the Cartophilic Society.
