$1,400

Soon after James II's death in exile, in 1701, his son was recognised as James III, King of England, by France, Spain, the Papal States and Modena, despite the fact that William III occupied the English throne at that time. James (III) lived in France as a guest of Louis XIV, but the War of the Spanish Succession ended with the Treaty of Utrecht in 1713, and one of the conditions was that he should be expelled from France. After a failed attempted invasion of Britain, James returned to France, where he remained until his death in 1766. Princess Louisa Maria Teresa Stuart (1692-1712) was the last child of James II. She was born in France at St Germain-en-Laye during her parents' exile, but died of smallpox aged 19 in 1712, the date of this medal.

3392*

Queen Anne, Peace of Utrecht 1713 medal in silver by J.Crocker, 58mm, 75 grams, obv. laureate, draped bust of Queen left, around ANNA D:G: MAG: BRI: FR: ET: HIB: REG. rev. Britannia seated with olive branch, spear and shield, ships and farming scene in background, around COMPOSITIS VENERANTVR ARMIS, (Eimer 458 [£1100 in EF]; MI ii 399/256). Better than extremely fine with deep blue tone.

$1,200

At the Treaty of Utrecht Britain made significant gains. Gibraltar was ceded by Spain to Britain, and Louis XIV of France gave Newfoundland, Nova Scotia and the Hudson Bay territory to Britain. Louis also promised to give no further support to Prince James (the Old Pretender) and the exiled Stuarts.

3393*

George I, 1714 Coronation medal by J. Crocker in silver, 34mm, 15.3 grams, obv. laureate bust right of George I, rev. King enthroned being crowned by Britannia. (Eimer 470; MI II 479/4). Toned, some light obverse scuffs, otherwise better than extremely fine.

$650

The Most Honourable Order of the Bath was neglected during and after the reign of Charles II. George I revived the order.

3395*

George I, 1718, The defeat of Spanish Fleet off Cape Passarro, silver medal by J Croker, 45mm., 37 grams, obv. laureate draped bust of king George I to right, around GEORGIVS D G MAG BR FR ET HIB REX F:D.; rev. statue of the King as Neptune on a rostral column, surrounded by captured naval trophies, around SOCIORVM PROTECTOR, (Eimer 481; MI 11 437/39). Better than extremely fine, attractive tone.

$800

The medal features one of the finest portraits of George I. This medal celebrates the defeat of a Spanish fleet under Admirals Antonio de Gaztaneta and Ferdinand Chacon by a British fleet under George Byng. Four months later Britain, France and Austria declared war on Spain and Byng became a Rear Admiral and a Privy Councillor.

3397*

George I, William Wake (1657-1737) silver medal, 1725 by Dassier, 42mm, 32.65 grams, obv. bust of William Wake in clerical robes, rev. features Latin descriptive prose ending with date MDCCXXV, (Eimer 500; MI ii 462/73). Beautifully toned mint state, and especially scarce in silver.

$300

William Wake was Archbishop of Canterbury for virtually the whole of the reign of King George I, holding the position from 1716 until his death in 1737. Wake became Canon of Christ Church Oxford in 1689, and in 1693 Rector of St James. He was Bishop of London and later Archbishop of Canterbury. Tolerant and a prolific writer he was one of Britain's greatest churchmen.

$2,500

Ex David Allen Collection and purchased from Ray Tancred, Medal-Badge Dealer (Sydney), c1973.

Lewis Pingo (1743-1830), London. Die sinker, engraver, gem engraver and artist. Assistant Engraver, Royal Mint, 1776; Chief Engraver, 1779, retired 1815. Best known for his 1787 'Spade' guinea, Cook Royal Society Medal 1784, 1787 sixpence and shilling and Seige of Gibraltar Medal 1782.

The first 'Pallets' were awarded in 1767 (see 'Tickets & Passes of Great Britain and Ireland' by W.J. Davis & A.W. Waters, ref.361, 362 - p.148). This example (gilt) is specifically mentioned in Leonard Forrer's 'Biographical Dictionary of Medallists' (p134). Pingo was also awarded gold Pallets in 1771 and 1772.

For additional information on Lewis Pingo, see Christopher Eimer's 'The Pingo Family & Medal Making in 18th-Century Britain', British Art Medal Trust, 1998. This medal, while quite scarce is extremely rare as one of numismatic association, perhaps doubly so to someone as important as Lewis Pingo.

The only example of a Pallet offered in recent times seems to have been in a London auction in 2010. It was a silver piece estimated at £400 - £600, to a pedestrian recipient of no numismatic importance.

3401*

Historic letter, handwritten in ink, sent from Andw. Lang Selkirk on 6 June 1814 to William Borthwick, East Lothian Bank, Dunbar offering support for a bank agency application by Mr Mungo Park, octagonal red handstamp 7/1814. One small torn piece, otherwise very fine for period.

$180

The East Lothian Banking Company was founded in Dunbar, Scotland on 1 January 1810. In 1822 its cashier, William Borthwick (see outside of letter) absconded with most of the bank's cash and bills resulting in the closure of the bank. He was later arrested in South America but there is some debate as to whether he ever stood trial.

Alexander Park (line 2 of letter), born 1773, was the brother of the famous explorer, Mungo Park (see letter), the Scottish doctor and explorer who died in Africa while seeking the source of the Niger River. Alexander was a Writer of the Signet (solicitor) and agent for Alexander Selkirk (letter writer). This Selkirk was of the same family as Alexander Selkirk who, 130 years before, had been marooned on Juan Fernandez Island off South America and was the model for Daniel Defoe's character, Robinson Crusoe. Lord Byron, signature on part of a letter written from Genoa and indicating a possible trip to Greece, signature at end as Noel Byron, dated Genoa May 29th 1823. Foxing, some splits around edges, ink signature clear, fine.

George Gordon Byron, 6th Baron Byron, later George Gordon Noel Byron (1788-1824). Byron was an English poet and a leading figure in the romantic movement of his time. He was handsome, athletic, a competent boxer, horseman and excellent swimmer. He was and is widely read and influential in the English speaking world and beyond. Famous not only for his writings but for his life which featured extravagant living, numerous love affairs including rumours of a scandalous incestuous liaison with his half-sister and self imposed exile.

When Byron's mother-in-law, Judith Noel, died in 1822 her will required that he change his surname to Noel in order to inherit half her estate and so he obtained a Royal Warrant to do so. This Royal Warrant also allowed him to subscribe the said surname of Noel before all titles of honour' and from that point he signed himself as Noel Byron. There was some speculation that he did this so that his initials were NB thus mimicing those of his hero Napoleon Bonaparte.

It is significant that in the part letter offered here, Byron mentions that 'though not yet decided that circumstances may conduct me once more to Greece' because within six weeks he left Genoa for Greece to support it in its efforts to gain independence from the Ottoman Empire. While in Greece Byron fell ill on 24 February 1824 and despite a partial recovery in early April he became ill again and it is thought that as a result of poor medical treatment he finally died on 19 April 1824 in Missolonghi.

Since Byron only started signing his name as Noel Byron sometime in 1822 then this style of signature was only used for a relatively short period of about two years and hence must be considered extremely scarce.
