Although founded in India in 1842 it moved to its new head office in Threadneedle Street London in 1851, and shortly after opened in Melbourne and Sydney in 1852. After re-organisation the bank gradually moved the bulk of its business into Asia. It failed again in 1892 during the depression of that time. Probably a dozen or so notes from this bank survive.

Although the ink notation on the back indicates an 1890 use, it also seems possible that these notes formed part of the need for a circulating note in the 1850s and 1860s. The port of Robe Town, in the southern part of South Australia was in the late 1850s an entry point for many Chinese after Victoria introduced a prohibitive entry tax to stem the flow of Asian migrants to the goldfields. In order to avoid the tax, ships from China dropped these migrants at Robe Town, and from there the Chinese began the long trek eastward to the goldfields of Ballarat, Mount Alexander etc. Ormerod and Co., a local firm in Robe produced ten shilling notes which only lasted a year, of which today only a few survive (see next lot). They were rather ironically produced in Melbourne by Ferguson & Mitchell who are known to have produced banknotes in the 1890s. George Ormerod was born in 1822 at Rochdale in England and emigrated to Victoria in 1842. He later came to South Australia and in 1846 took up 87 square miles of land at Naracoorte, known as the Naracoorte run. The station was sold in 1848 and George Ormerod commenced business at Robe as a Wool Buyer, General Merchant and shipping Agent. He died in 1872 at the age of 50 years.
