Frank McKeanie was the son of a prominent, pioneering pastoralist from 'Aberfoyle' at Yarra near Goulburn, NSW. After leaving school he was apprenticed to the engineering trade at Goulburn. On 1 June 1906 his wife Ivy, aged 25, died of typhoid. Then, in 1925, he purchased, Sydney Machine Co, based at Botany Road, Waterloo, not far from Mascot Aerodrome, as it was called at that time. Frank was a qualified pilot with the NSW Section of the Australian Aero Club and it was reported in 1930 that his father, George, had a nice surprise when Frank flying on his way to Canberra landed in a paddock at Yarra to visit him. Frank knew the surrounding area well as he grew up and camped on the Canberra Plains on many occasions when droving cattle, little knowing that one day the Federal capital would be built on that site.

On another occasion in June 1931, while flying over Yarra, Frank dropped a letter by parachute to a local resident to advise him that his father, George McKeanie, was undergoing medical treatment in Sydney. Scrawled across the envelope were the words, 'Gee, it's cold up here--a cup of coffee would go good.' This was the first letter delivered to Yarra by medium of an aeroplane and the local resident stated that he was going to preserve the envelope, letter and silk parachute as a souvenir.

In 1932 Frank McKeanie was elected as a member of the committee of the Australian Aero Club (NSW). In the same year he presented an Essex truck, used for towing aeroplanes about the 'drome, to the Aero Club (NSW). He also was president of the air tourney committee for the Lady of the Air Tourney held at Hargrave Park and in that capacity he presented the trophy to the winner, Miss Valmal Jenkins. Hargrave Park at Liverpool, NSW was an area of about 70 acres acquired by the Royal Aero Club and they created an airfield there which opened in 1930. It was closed in about 1945.

In November 1934 Frank McKeanie once again was the Aero Club's representative when three aircraft, three pilots and an instructor were sent from Sydney to Bombala to assist in celebrations to greet the King's son, HRH Prince Henry, when he visited the area. In 1935 he was elected Vice-Chairman of the Aero Club.

Vendor advises that Frank McKeanie piloted one of the planes that flew over the Sydney Harbour Bridge on its official opening day but this has not been confirmed.

AUSTRALIAN HISTORICAL MEDALS

Convict love token, being a heart shape cut from a Great Britain, cartwheel penny, 1797. Some pitting, otherwise very good.

896

Convict or love token, undated (c1800s), probably a Great Britain shilling shaved smooth, obverse, a small stem with leaves and two flowers and at the right the initial, 'E', on the reverse is inscribed with the monogram initials, 'DNB' with a spray of leaves above. Very good.

$50

897*

Convict love token, (on a cartwheel penny ?), obverse, stippled inscription 'John/Woodcock/Lagd for/7 years/Oct 26/1816', reverse, incomplete but appears to show the remnants of a Masonic triangle with the letters 'Th' and 'HB' therein. Fine/very good and rare as records of known tokens indicate that this is the earliest token known to remain in private hands.

$7,000

Johnathan Woodcock described in records as a sawyer or labourer was born in Hertford, England in 1796. In 1813 he received a 7 year sentence for larceny and was transported to Australia arriving on the 'Fanny' in 1816. Records show that he successfully applied to marry Amelia Bowing in 1819 and that a son, James, was born in 1820. He received a certificate of freedom for his original sentence on 4th June 1821 but was again back before the Sydney Criminal Court in June of 1822 when he was again sentenced to 7 years. His name appears on the convict musters of 1822, 1825 and 1828 and show that he resided at Port Macquarie during this period. He was eventually freed on the 26th June 1829 and appears to have remained out of further trouble until his death in 1849.

Convict love token, (on a cartwheel penny?), obverse, engraved 'Elizabeth Taylor/to/Charles Taylor/God bless you my/Dear', reverse, engraved 'A token of Love/to/My dear Husband/1827' between the 18 and 27, two overlapping love hearts with arrow through. Nearly very fine.

$7,000

Found in Sydney this keepsake which drips with emotion appears to be the only surviving token given by a wife to a husband to carry with him to Australia.

Interestingly four Charles Taylor's arrived in Australia in the relevant time frame, however two can be confidently discounted due to age (15 years) and the point of disembarkation (Hobart). The third Charles Taylor, who was transported for life, arrived on the 'Asia' on the 19th November 1827 and appears in the Convict Muster of 1837 as a 29 year old. The emotion contained in the token would seem unlikely to apply to a husband who would have been nineteen in 1827. The final and strongest candidate for 'My dear Husband' is Charles Taylor who was transported for life on the 'Marquis of Hastings' on the 14th April 1827. His death at age 47 was recorded on the 18th August 1839 at Bathurst very soon after he was pardoned, and before he could be reunited with his dear wife.

Convict love token, (on a cartwheel penny?), obverse, the stippled portrait of a young man identified by the legend as 'W Vale 23 Death Recorded 1828', reverse, stippled inscription 'When/This you See/Remember Me/When Banished/From My Countr(y)/A Present For/Ann Carrier/Aged 19/1828'. Holed for suspension, good fine and rare, one of only a few surviving convict tokens relating to women.

$7,000

Ann Carrier was described as a housemaid and nurse at her trial in Warwick, England on the 9th August 1828. However, she obviously had other means of income as she was convicted of stealing in Birmingham 'from the person in a house of ill-fame'. According to the author Babette Smith in her book 'A Cargo of Women', in which Ann has several mentions, it was not an uncommon crime for working women to be convicted of stealing money from their clients when they were in a vulnerable state.

She arrived in Sydney on the 'Princess Royal' in May 1829 and was assigned to Sarah Wyer before being transferred to M. Smith and then later to Captain H Steel.

Ann's English boyfriend (W Vale?) was long dead, buried and forgotten when in 1831 she applied to marry John Ward, however this union did not proceed. But in April 1833 she successfully married Peter Tyler a convict printer employed by the Sydney Monitor and who had earlier been caught up in a bitter campaign against the unpopular Governor Darling. Records show that Peter Tyler died in Sydney in July 1842 but Ann's later years remain a mystery.

John Mason was convicted of the offence of pickpocketing a handkerchief in Bridge Street, Blackfriars on 9 November 1836. His trial was held at London's Central Criminal Court on 28 November 1836; found guilty he was sentenced to be Transported for Seven Years. He was one of 240 convicts transported on the Elphinstone, leaving on 27 May 1837, place of arrival being Van Diemen's Land on 2 October 1837.

Love token, convict probably or seaman, Great Britain cartwheel penny, 1797, edges hammered flat and some attempt made to insert a pattern around rim, obverse, impressed initials, 'J.C' at top, below stippled, 'J.?', at base is engraved with scroll of leaves and floral theme, reverse, impressed 'J.J(ones) stippled /L. The Coolangatta Gold was a surf race from Surfer's Paradise to Coolangatta and back which was conceived by Peter Schrek in 1984 when he was writing a movie featuring the talents of surfing ironman legend, Grant Kenny. The race was to be the dramatic climax to the movie. From this idea, an actual race was staged with prize money to the winner and a medal. Only the winner received a medal and this medal was not issued again. The medals offered above were specimens held by the sponsor and the named one bears the name of one of the sponsor's executives. Although many notable ironmen competed, the relatively unknown 18-year old Guy Leech from Manly Surf Lifesaving Club was the winner.

THE WILLIAM JOHN (BILL) BURKE COLLECTION OF FIRE BRIGADE MEMORABILIA

Bill Burke was born on 27th December 1937 in Edinburgh, Scotland. At the age of 13 with his father, mother, brother and sister, he migrated to Hobart, Tasmania arriving on 4th January 1950.

He turned 20 years old (on the 27th December 1957) and two weeks later on 11th January 1958 joined the Hobart Fire Brigade as a partly paid volunteer fireman (fire fighter). On 21st July 1958, he joined the Hobart Fire Brigade as a permanent Fireman Third Class. Three years later he passed his exams as a First Class Fireman.

On 3rd November 1973 Bill having passed the exam was promoted to Station Officer and on 23rd February 1984 to Superintendent.

In 1979 Tasmania became the first State to have one fire service when the Urban Permanent and Urban Paid Volunteers joined the Rural Fire Board who managed the Country Volunteer Brigades, all unpaid volunteers comprising approximately 250 brigades and 3,000 volunteers. They all became one service, same uniforms, training, welfare, equipment, radios and telephone system.

On 21st August 1995 Bill became District Officer of the Midlands District and transferred to Bothwell, close to the centre of Tasmania. The district has the Central Highlands, mostly inaccessible mountains, sheep and cattle, properties, much logging and in winter, snow down to 400 metres. As District Officer Bill was responsible for 26 volunteer brigades, including training, discipline, uniforms, arson investigation, fire control and fire fighting.

Bill recalls that of all the incidents he attended the 'Black Tuesday' of 7th February 1967 still remains with him today. The southern part of Tasmania was devastated and many thousands of buildings and homes were destroyed, 64 people lost their lives.

He received the National Medal on 2nd January 1971 and has 3 bars for 25, 35 and 45 years service. On 1st January 1994 Bill received the Australian Fire Service Medal. He also has the National Service Medal (1939-1960), Anniversary of National Service Medal (1951-1972), The Australian Defence Medal, Citizens Military Forces Reserve and Territorial Forces Conscript Medal and the Hobart Fire Brigade 125 Years Service Medal.

Bill retired on 31st July 2008 but continues on as a volunteer member with the Tasmania Fire Service Museum Brigade where they restore old fire engines, such as a fully operational 1911 Leyland turntable ladder, a 1924 Garford and many other old appliances. Currently he is close to serving 60 years, being 70 when he retired and having served a record 50 years as a permanent operational fire fighter.

We are pleased to offer the following collection (lots 977 - 1086 ) on behalf of Bill, put together over the past sixty years:
