In early 1942, due to a severe shortage in currency reserves, aid was requested from British Authorities in Palestine. Subsequently, £250,000 in Palestine Currency Board one and five pound notes dated 20 April 1939 were placed on reserve in Cyprus. Because of the ongoing acute currency shortage these notes were put into circulation on 5 May 1942 with usage primarily restricted to Army camps. When new Cyprus notes were received these Palestine notes were withdrawn and demonetized on 10 September 1942.

In an attempt to overcome a severe coin shortage authority was given to the Government Printer in Nicosia to overprint a number of 30th August 1941 one shilling notes (P.26) all with the serial number prefix C/3. These notes, overprinted three piastres, were circulated under an amendment to the existing rules dated 16 February 1943. Unfortunately, some members of the public discovered that the overprinting could be removed with benzine and the note could then be used for the higher value of one shilling (nine piastres). Nine days later, an amendment was made to the rules authorising a revised overprinted note that used only the right side (approx two fifths) of the shilling note.
